The Cork Constitution

BELVO CONKERED

It was no more room as 120 Cork under 11's and 12's made their first away trip on the 9th October 2010. to Old Belvedere to play a series of games against Old Belvedere and Boyne RFC and watch the Con Senior team play Old Belvedere in the AIL league in Anglesey Road. The teams with 10 coaches left Temple Hill at 8.30am with the Underage Director of Rugby and Underage Secretary, and parents on 3 buses.

We are grateful to Old Belvedere's Jackie and Jody for hosting both ourselves and Boyne Rugby Club. It was a pleasure and we thank them. It also allowed us to connect with Jock O'Callaghan, an old stalwart of Cork Con who now coaches Boyne. When the U 12's arrived Boyne had already played two matches against Old Belvedere and we then played three matches against Old Belvedere. We continued with three matches against Boyne and there were memorable moments and some great rugby in all matches. Six matches in all were played which afforded the coaches the opportunity to play all 55 players, which was the no 1 achievement of the day.

The U11's did not get as many games as planned, however, most boys played in a couple of games. The results were good - despite the fact that several of the U11 teams had to play their first game within moments of arriving after the long bus journey.

After the games, Old Belvedere hosted us and provided plenty of sandwiches and soft drinks for the boys ... and tea/coffee for the coaches and travelling parents. Some of the coaches were seen to add a little 'something' to their coffee Presumably to help them face into the return bus journey!

During the Senior game a horse chestnut tree was spotted and enough conkers were collected by the boys to last them through the winter.

It was a great day for all concerned, especially when the Cork Con seniors finished the day with a marvellous win that keeps them on top of the AIL. The return journey was full of good laughs with the players singing and recounting stories from the day which will be something they will always remember. Well done to all.

Cork Con sit proudly atop the AIL table after two stirring away victories against two very strong Dublin teams Rock and Belvo. Match reports by Stan Waldron.

Cork Con FC 1st XV V Blackrock College

Score: 31 - 23

Constitution began their AIL defence with a sterling away win against Blackrock College. Leading 18-13 at half time, Constitution pressed the home side to the end, and a late penalty denied Blackrock a losing bonus point, while four tries gained a valuable bonus point for Constitution.

Richard Lane and Robert Keogh kicked two penalties each in the opening 15 minutes, as penalties were awarded frequently for non-release of ball and tackler. Darragh Lyons darted through for the first try in the 21st minute having received from a line-out on the 5 metre line. Blackrock No.8, Alex Dunlop gave his side the lead when he raced in for a try near the posts in the 34th minute, and Keogh added the points. But Frank Cogan restored Con's lead in the 40th minute with a try from the base of a 5-metre scrum, awarded after Peter O'Mahony was held up on the line. Richard Lane kicked the conversion for Con to lead 18-13 at half time.

Blackrock took the lead again with a penalty by Keogh, and he converted a try by Niall Morris in the 50th minute after a Con defensive lapse. Richard Lane scored Con's third try in the 65th minute in the right corner after a sweeping move, to tie up the scores at 23 points each. Cronan Healy, who caused the Blackrock defence an amount of trouble all through, got away on the left wing in the 70th minute and set up Stephen Archer for the bonus-point try. Richard Lane deprived the home side of a deserved losing bonus point with a penalty in the final minutes.

Cork Con FC 1st XV V Old Belvedere

Score: 12-9

Constitution won for the second week in Dublin, after overcoming a stern test from a strong Old Belvedere side. However, unlike last week against Blackrock College, there were no tries on offer and scoring chances were at a premium, as the high wind made for some difficulty. The scores were level at 3-3 after 10 minutes, 6-6 at half time; 9-9 after 54 minutes, and Sean Scanlon got the winner with a splendid drop goal from 40 metres in the 81st minute.

Conal Keane got the first score for Old Belvedere with a penalty after 3 minutes. Con levelled in the 11th minute from a Richard Lane penalty, after a sustained Con attack on the Belvedere line went close to yielding a try. Ian Nagle was harshly yellow-carded in the 17th minute for an off the ball tackle in mid-field and Keane landed the penalty. However, Con were level again in the 37th minute when Belvedere prop Stewart Maguire also saw yellow and Lane converted the penalty.

Defences continued to dominate in the second period, and another penalty by Lane gave Con the lead in the 48th minute. Andy Dunne replaced Keane at No.10 for Belvedere and equalised again in the 54th minute, when Cyprian Jouviet was yellow-carded and Keane landed the penalty.

Tracey delight after Con Vets Score Nine

Cork Con Vets 45

KwaZulu Old Crocks 15

Team Manager Eric Tracey was entitled to feel more than a bit concerned before the start of his Golden Oldies game against the KwaZulu Old Crocks played under lights at Templehill on the 22 September 2010.

Watching the KwaZulu team go through an impressive pre-match warm up and well rehearsed drills he knew that his side would be up against it as the Con side hadn't been together for a long time, had never trained as a unit before and thought that drills were something you used to hang a picture frame.

This was the KwaZulu's fifth international tour in as many years having previously toured Argentina & Uruguay, France, Chile and Canada and although they had one veteran, 71 years young playing on the wing, their average age was just over 50.

Of much more concern to Tracey was that he had just been told the KwaZulu team had two full internationals in their side , Dick Cocks had earned 10 caps at No 8 for the Wallabies in the early '70s, and Graham Downes was capped by the US Eagles at prop.

Tracey hoped that his decision to bolster his side by selecting Kenny Murphy and David Corkery with 38 full Irish Caps between them would pay off.

From the start Con played heads up rugby and put plenty of pace on the ball to score 5 tries before the visitors got their first try. This galvanized the Con side into action scoring 4 more tries before fittingly the KwaZulu scored the last two tries of the game.

The match was played in a very sporting spirit with referee Eoin O'Neill having little influence on the outcome as penalties and conversions were not kicked.

A Barbeque followed and a great night was enjoyed by both teams and supporters with the sing song continuing well into the night.

KwaZulu Old Crocs is an over-40's rugby club founded in San Diego, California in 2004. The core of their team comprised people who grew up and played their rugby in the Durban area of what is now called KwaZulu Natal – hence their name. The tour party travelled from Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, USA, and the UK, as well as South Africa. Following their game in Templehill , the tour party gingerly travelled to Galway for Arthur's Day and finished up with a game against Mary's in Dublin.

Rolling subs were used and as some wit on the side line commented "a good job too otherwise the game would never have finished".

Last word from Bill Shrimpton "we had a wonderful evening at Cork Con, both on and off the field. The post-match hospitality was spectacular , our thanks to all who contributed, particularly the lady overseeing the BBQ and her team. A magical evening and a very warm welcome."

Both teams remained on the pitch, as the KwaZulu sang their song, to the delight of a large support of nervous wives friends and supporters followed by Packie Derham (capt) leading his team to a hearty rendition of "Here Here The Cons"

Special Thanks to the water boys Jack O'Riordan and David Good who were kept busy throughout the game

After the game the Kwazula Manager Bill Shrimpton said we knew that this would be a tough place to come and play , we had to get off to a fast start which unfortunately did not happen , possibly we were a bit tired after the long warm up and the beers the night before.

The IRFU Clubhouse: Cork Constitution In Focus

IrishRugby.ie visited reigning Division I champions Cork Constitution recently to find out what makes 'Con' tick. For all those who missed it on the IRFU website the article is reproduced below.

There are many long established and venerable rugby clubs in Ireland, but one club in particular can surely lay claim to a place in the 'royalty' of Munster and Irish rugby - Cork Constitution.

Founded in 1892, Cork Constitution FC has a long and proud tradition of producing some of the finest club, provincial and international players. The current Munster roster includes no less than nineteen players, between the Academy, sub Academy, Under-20, 'A' and senior squads, who hail from Temple Hill, the home of Cork Con.

Trawl through the excellent history of the club on their website, or browse the walls of the clubhouse and you will see that this is not a new phenomenon. This is the club that gave us Murphy, Kiernan, Lenihan, Bradley, O'Gara...the list goes on.

But it is not just that the club produces great players at the top level. They seem to do it at every level.

A glance at the All-Ireland League table shows that while Constitution won the play-off title twice in recent seasons - 2009/10 and 2007/08 - they also finished top of the league table in 2002, 2004, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009 and 2010.

We met with members of the club, including current club President Der O'Riordan, club Chairman Jack O'Sullivan, head coach Brian Walsh and three-time club captain Frank Cogan.

We talked about the challenges facing clubs, the evolving role that professionalism has brought with it and how Cork Con are always looking to the future, but ever mindful of their proud tradition. Professional rugby has had a huge impact on clubs, none more so than Cork Con.

Der O'Riordan takes up the story, explaining: "Like many clubs we struggled to come to terms with what it meant. Our best players were suddenly gone.

"We had nurtured them, brought them on and now they were gone from us. We were proud of their achievements but possibly a little resentful about losing them.

"It took time for us to adjust but we think we are in the right place now. We continue to develop the young players and when one of them is lucky enough to land a Development Contract or an Academy place we are proud of them.

"We know they may not play as many games for us from that point on, but we work hard to get the balance right."

Echoing this, Brian Walsh added: "Last season we handed out 35 medals to our first team squad. This reflected the fact that lads had to step in and out as the season dictated, but that each player earned his place."

On the night we visited the club there were a number of interested spectators for training, including Peter O'Mahony, Billy Holland, Simon Zebo and Scott Deasy - all fresh from Munster service.

None of them were training but all of them are Con boys. Some of them will probably feature for Cork Con in the All-Ireland League this season.

Like so many of the players in the club these young men have come up through the ranks. Starting out playing mini rugby with the 'Conettes', developing in school and then coming back to the club while at the same time starting out on a professional rugby career. It is a hallmark of Constitution players that they are loyal to the club.

They will not thank me for saying it but that loyalty is equally clear when you see the 'old hands' such as top points scorer Richie Lane and flying winger Cronan Healy warming up alongside younger players coming up through the ranks.

Cork Con have adapted to the new rugby landscape and have ambitious plans for attracting people back to the game.

Last season the newly restructured Division IA with eight teams was the most competitive in years. The rugby was highly pressurised and clubs like Constitution, Blackrock, Dolphin, St. Mary's and others all featured contracted players.

It is this combination of improved quality of the game and the opportunity to see these rising young stars that forms the bedrock of Cork Con's plans. In recessionary times, a 'tenner' to your local club seems good value for money to catch some future Munster and Ireland stars in action.

The plans do not stop there though. A fabulous new clubhouse is in the offing for Cork Con, with top of the range fixtures and fittings for the playing and coaching staff.

"We want our players to know that they are the most important part of the club," said Chairman Jack O'Sullivan.

"The plans are at an advanced stage and once we have completed the project we will have the best facilities a player could look for in a club, but also a wonderful clubhouse for the alickadoos who are still an important part of the club."

That new clubhouse will be needed for the future members. Like many clubs, Cork Con is packed to the gills on a Saturday morning as their 600 or so 'Conettes' take part in a mini rugby programme that emphasises skill, participation and teamwork above all else.

The simple investment in a good coffee machine means that parents, when not helping out with the coaching, can enjoy the Saturday paper with a nice brew and the club has another revenue stream.

The club are also very conscious of the contribution of their sponsors, even more so in the current economic climate.

They understand the need to give 'value for money' and are actively engaging with local media. Their appearances live on RTE in the finals of the All-Ireland League Division I and All-Ireland Cup last season was duly noted by first team sponsors, the Rochestown Park Hotel.

There is a small President's Bar in the current clubhouse. Some of the most dramatic changes in Irish rugby - the launch of the first All-Ireland League back in 1990 and the genesis of the Heineken Cup - were partly conceived here by the legendary Tom Kiernan.

The rugby landscape has changed dramatically since then, and clubs have had to embrace the challenge and evolve. The new Temple Hill clubhouse will soon reflect that change and Cork Con's response to that challenge.

The signs are there already that the future is bright - in the strong green shoots on the first pitch (completely regrown after the hard winter damage last season), in the freshly painted steps and fencing (a result of a club painting party).

And in the number of rugby players who will line out for Constitution this season or who will don a Munster or Ireland jersey and have the words Cork Constitution in brackets after their name.

A final comment illustrates the ethos of this club - "Our minis take turns providing a guard of honour for the firsts. We have to share it out each week or the guard of honour would stretch from the clubhouse to the far 22!"

"At the end of the season, the firsts present their jerseys to younger players in the club. It is amazing to see the young lads wearing the Con jersey with as much pride as a Munster or Ireland one."

U11 Match Reports Old Belvedere

Match reports below for the five Cork Con U11 teams (Argentina, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and Wales):

Cork Con-South Africa (Coach: Kevin Fielding)
Cork Con-South Africa V Boyne
Score: Boyne 2 Try's / Cork Con 1 Try

Con U11s 'South Africa' side played against a Boyne RFC U11 selection on Saturday afternoon. In their first match the boys were a little sluggish after the long bus journey and unfortunately had to go straight into a game with no preparation time. Despite this they acquitted themselves very well. They were beaten on a score line of 2 - 1 but it is fair to say that had the game continued for another few minutes they would certainly have equalized. Rory O'Neill did very well at second row, Jacob Farrell tackled well and Jordan Conway was always a threat with ball in hand. Con's only try came from Josh Clarke who beat several defenders before scoring in the corner.

Con scores: Josh Clarke

Con Team: James Scanlon, Cian O'Mahony, Jacob Farrell, Josh Clarke, Conor Roe, Will Fielding, Shane Scanlon, Ben Norton, Alan Larmour, Peter O'Connor, Michael Nolan, Rory O'Neill, Jordan Conway

Cork Con-Argentina (Coach: Ger Collins)
Cork Con-Argentina V Boyne
Score: Boyne 3 / Cork Con 6

Con U11s 'Argentina' side played against a Boyne RFC U11 selection on Saturday morning. In glorious sunshine following a sluggish start after the long bus journey Argentina came into their own to win the game by 6 tries to 3. It was a close game played on a very tight pitch which meant the front five were very busy all through the game. It was nip and tuck for the first half with the teams trading 3 tries each. In the second half the hard work and discipline of the Con pack paid dividends with very quick ball off the back of the ruck and scrums. The quick ball was used to great effect by the Con back line when they scored three tries without reply. Despite a spirited response from the Boyne team Con held out for a much deserved win.

Con scorers: Luke Humphreys, Michael Sheehan, Cormac Collins, Adam Murphy, Jason Murphy 2 tries

Con Team: Louis Buckley, Jason Murphy, Luke Humphreys, Cormac Collins, Adam Murphy, Conor Cronin, Darragh Murphy, Brian Cronin, Ryan Rea, Michael Sheehan, Luke O'Mahony, Cian Houston

Cork Con-Argentina V Old Belvedere
Score: Old Belvedere 1 / Cork Con 2

After the demands of the Boyne match Con Argentina had little time to catch their breath. The home team and favorites, Old Belvedere, were waiting to challenge Con U11s. This game was played on a much larger pitch than the first match which resulted in a much more open and free running game. Whereas the front five had to do all the hard work in the first match the backs had to roll up their sleeves in this open free flowing game. The fact that Con limited Old Belvedere to one try tells the story of hard tackling and commitment by all the Con team. The hard work and graft took its toll on the opposition and Con created two fantastic moves to carve open the 'Belvo' defense and put Michael Sheehan in for two tremendous tries. At the final whistle the Con lads fell to the ground in exhaustion but thrilled at yet another win on the road for this ever improving team that is gelling well together.

Con scorers: Michael Sheehan 2 tries

Cork Con-Wales V Boyne
Score: Boyne 9 / Cork Con 4

We played a friendly against Old Belvedere last Saturday on a warm, sunny autumn day on a firm pitch. We were unfortunate to come up against an exceptionally talented Old Belvedere team who were very good in the forwards. They pushed us off our own ball in several scrums and rucked well as a unit. Their backs played superbly and gave us a lesson in passing and tackling. The score line of 9 - 4 was not a true reflection of our effort and ability. Nevertheless, it was an exciting game which was played in a sporting manner by both sides and was refereed well by the Old Belvedere ref who is apparently the coach of the Ireland women's team. We were disappointed that having made the journey to Dublin, we only had one match. The boys made their own amusement, however, and their guard of honor and support for our senior team inspired a thrilling AIL victory for the club. The next few training sessions will be devoted to scrums and tackling, so eat your Weetabix!

Con squad: Niall Hassan, Michael Ahern, David Cullen, Sam Jackson, Oliver Murphy, Mark Murphy, James Shalloe, Emmet Sheehan, Olan Dennehy, Richard McGinley, Robert Cahill, and Mark David Murphy.

Time Past

Nearly 45 years ago ,10 November 1966 , Cork Con completed a refurbishment and enlargement of the existing clubhouse and invited members to a social to allow them to preview the new layout before it came into general use.

Note the suggested closing time , happy days indeed.

Many thanks to a former member Denis Ryan , now of UL Bohs fame, for forwarding the invitation.

Getting To Know Cronan Healy

One of the most consistent finishers in the league, Cronan has been Con's striker supreme on the wing for several seasons. An Irish Club International his speed, swerve and eye for the try-line coupled with his all action perpetual motion style of play ensures that he's the most productive winger in Irish club rugby.

He's had many big days for Con but two that stand out are the AIB Cup final in 2006 at Lansdowne Road when Healy scorched over for four tries as Con dispatched St Mary's 37-12 and his injury time try that scuttled St Mary's in last years AIL final.

Cronan is also a stalwart on the Ballinora GAA team and has played senior football with Muskerry, & a Cork Senior Football trialist.
